MEDFORD, MA – An MFA Thesis Exhibition of two installation artists in the joint graduate degree program of Tufts University and the School of the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston opens December 4 at the Tufts University Art Gallery. This exhibition of contemporary art is the first in an annual, ongoing series of MFA Thesis Exhibitions presented by Tufts.

EUGENE SCOTT FINNEY

“For my Master of Fine Arts thesis exhibition, I will present sculptural works constructed from excavated and antique building materials. The focus of the exhibition will be the two sculptures, Boat (pictured here) and Dwelling, both constructed to human scale and intended for actual use after the duration of the exhibition.”

DANIEL PHILLIPS

“The first room of the exhibit displays videos—both on monitors and projected—showing the transformation of my studio over the past year, and other collaborative projects involving the use of scavenged materials to create objects and transform spaces. Thousands of animated photographs show the process of creating, destroying, and restoring as essential to the value of my art. Salvaged paint, wood, paper, metal, and various other construction materials are appropriated both for their function and aesthetic value, informing a desperate and playful search for meaningful imagery.”

Daniel Phillips

“The second room in the gallery is a working studio, around which an elevated platform affords viewers a privileged look down into the workspace. This studio within the gallery is an ongoing process-based installation for the course of the exhibition, serving as an environment for individuals to collaborate, experiment, and transform the gallery space beyond its normal confines.”
